

Survival Storehouse pty ltd gains foothold in Australian mining sector

(1888PressRelease) Online retailer Survival Storehouse pty ltd has recently started to win business supplying Mainstay 5 year shelf life food and water kits in the lucrative mining sector in Australia.

\(1888PressRelease\) Sole distributor in Australia for Mainstay food and water products Survival Storehouse pty ltd has moved from the camping and lifestyles market into the lucrative Australian mining sector. The mining industry in Australia has boomed in recent years and winning business in this very competitive area is a great reflection on the product and the company.

"Having an incredible 5 year shelf life is a very compelling feature of the food and water kits available from Mainstay. The vast distances involved in mining and exploration across Australia in some of the most inhospitably landscapes in the world make emergency preparation critical, having a compact 3 day supply food and water kit with the ability to stay viable for 5 years is great insurance. " a spokesman for Survival Storehouse said today

The tolerances that the Mainstay food and water is capable of sustaining means that it meets the stringent Dept of Defense guidelines of SOLAS 74/83. Being able to withstand temperatures of -40 degrees celsius to +149 degrees celsius makes it perfect for the harsh Australian outback conditions.

www.survivalstorehouse.com has been distributing Mainstay food and water via its website for over 2 years now in Australia and was proud recently to be appointed the sole distributor for Australia.
